The Sequel and Conclusion of Harry Coverdale's Courtship. [Continued.]

Captain Snawley, Harry read, doubtfully, as though he did not exactly know what it meant.

The Captain bowed affirmatively, and looked as grini as a figure-head. Then there was a pause, and the two men swood looking at one another, Harry on the ground wondering what was to come next, the Captain in his long stirrups as rigid as a grenadica the word attention. Harry asked, as the individuality of the Captain struggled dimly across his memory. 'Pray, sir, what may your business with me be?'

The Captain, grimmer than ever, produced his souf-box, and settling himself more sideways upon his pony, so as to address his auditor with greater effect, answered, spitting out his words with a peculiar slow jerk, 1 am Mrs. Blusterton's brother, sir. and in that capacity I call on you for an explanation of the ungentlemanly and insulting language you used to her last night.

Harry was half inclined to laugh, and a smile did cross his face, at which the Captain looked fiercer than ever, and took two pinches of smuff in rapid succession. He was more than half ungry, too, and it went against his grain to cat humble pie; but he knew enough of the Captain to be aware that quarrelling with him was a somewhat serious matter, so he said, I am sorry if I used any words last night offensive to Mrs. Blusterton, but she certainly had no right to moddle in my domestic affairt.

· Am I to understand, sir, that you make an unqualified apology?' asked the Captain.

Now Harry was ready to make an anonalified, sholosa the moment pefore, and only wanted to let himself down easy, but he did not like the word, and he still less liked the tone, so he replied. I thought that was an apology.

The Captain was a martinet, and like most martinets, punctilious. He was not to be put off in that way. He divided his case into heads and thus stated them :- Permit me to say, sir. that I cannot receive that as an apology. In the first place, you said 'if,' which implied a doubt of my sister's veracity or of my verzeity, or both; and in the second place, you gentlemanlike conduct - and the captain spat out ungentlemanlike with particular unction-

Harry's blood boiled. 'Cowardly ! would pull him off his pony and punish the offence there and then.

Loss of the Indian.

The following particulars have been received of the wreck of the Indian, from 1 cabin passenger, Hon. A. E. Bot sford. About 3 A. M. he was roused from a sound sleep by a noise like the chain of a heavy author going out, it was occasioned as he soon found, by the rocks that immediately ripped a long hole in her keel .-- in half an hour the steamer parted amidships The sailers behaved in a most cowerdly and base manner, some of them sat crying, some shouting like madmen, some seized the only available boats except two, and s pushed off in the darn, leaving the passengers to their fate, the sess breaking over them constantly. Three ladies, cabin pasjust 17, had been one month a bride, coming with her husband to be presented to which he, assisted by the mate of the steamer and others, got lowered. We were glad that, notwithstanding the severity of the weather, a goodly audience assembled to hear Professor Dean's first Lecture on Geology. We are sure that all who were fortunate enough to be there felt righty repaid. It is several years since we have had lectures on this most intensely interesting theme, and Professor D. presented much that was new to us, though we have studied the was new to us, though we have studied the subject not a little. He is refer easy, pleasant speaker without, tays his subject out very distinctly, and impresses the facts and all their connections, so that it is hard to forgot tham. His diagrams are quite clear and instructive, and keep the whole matter fairly and fully before the mind's eye. Upon the subject of the sarth's age, the Professor was particularly eloquent and couvincing, and throughout there was as much to open one's eyes and set one to thinking, that we have seldom been more entertained and instructed by a Lecture, and earnestly recommend to all who possibly can, young er old, to go on Priday and Monday evenings, without fail.

YOUTHFOL INTEMPREANCE.—We learn that officers Harard and Corrent took a poor youth to the Watch-house yesterday, having found him dead drunk in Thames Street. The poor child had every attention paid to him by the kind hearted Mayor and his officials, and is probably ere this himself. He is said to be the son of an intemperate parent.

This DELICIOUS TONIC

especially designed for the use of the Menical Profession and the Fault, possesses those intrinsic medicinal properties (Tonic and Dirretic) which belong to an Old and PURE GIN. The business tial endowment for the relief of the sick and distressed, affected with Virulent and Epidecic distressed, affected with Virulent and Epidecic discases.

The Howard Association, in view of the awford the distressed of the description of human life, caused by sexual diseases, and the deceptions practised upon the unfortunate victims of such diseases by Quacke, several years ago directed their consulting Surgeon, as a Churitable Act worthy of their name, to open a Dispensary of the catment of this class of diseases in all their form and to give Medical Advice Gratis, to all who apply by letter, with a description of their condition (age, not compation, habits of life, S.c.) and in cases of extense poverty to Firmish Medicines Free of Charge. Its needless to add that the Association commands the highest Medical skill of the age, and will furnish the most approved modern treatment.

The Directors of the Association, in their annual report upon the treatment of sexual diseases, for the year ending July 1st, 1538, expresses the highest satisfaction with the success which has stiended the labors of the consulting surgeon in the cure of Spermatorthe, Seminal Weakness, Impotence, Guorthea, Gleet, Syphilis, the vice of Onaism or self abuse, &c., and order a continuance of the same plan for the ansuing year.

The Directors, on a review of the past, feel of manufacturing spurious gins, and offering them as becorages, under the titles, 'Aromatic,"—" Cordial,"—" Medicated," etc., has become so common, that the publie are justly suspicions of nearly everything that is offered under similar forms, and the trade has thus been brought into disrepute It has remained for our house (established in 1779) to supply the pressing popular need, and to inaugurate a new era in the history of the Trade. We trust that our established reputation - founded apon righty years of experience - abundantly rindicates our claim to public confidence.

A comparison of Bininger's Old London Deck Glu-alfs solvers bearing similar names, will establish its inferiority, and make other Caution unnecessary.
